

Cotswold Hunt News Item

July 2001

Open Gardens Day on 8th July, was extremely successful thanks to all the hard work put in by all those involved, as well as the kind 'donations' of gardens to have open. We can imagine how much additional work goes into the 'extra titivating' before letting the public loose! We were up against the Wimbledon Finals, as well as having several local gardens open in their own right. Nevertheless, we finally raised just over £1,100 for the Hunt - as well as being able to donate £200 to the Addington Trust.

Julian was kind enough to show hounds during the afternoon which was very popular and attracted a lot of people who would otherwise not have normally come in contact with hounds. Tom Georges' Open Racing Yard was a great hit and Tom put on a wonderful show, a lot of work on our behalf. Teas were available, as were plants for sale. We are extremely grateful to all those who made the huge effort and opened their gardens. They all looked lovely.
